

2009-2010 School Year

Dear Parents and Students:

This library was designed with you in mind. Hopefully, you will find it useful and informative. I look forward to getting to know you better and helping you with the college admission process. My personal philosophy is one of best college fit for the student: academically, socially, and financially. My approach to the college application process is much like that of the job search. I encourage and prepare students to conduct the necessary research and treat their applications as they would a job resume. Furthermore, I encourage each student to explore and prepare for every aspect of the college application process, including the college entrance examinations. For this reason, this library includes a test preparation program, information for the college interview, and essay skills development tips.

Each year I strive to provide students with the necessary tools to help themselves. However, even though I am a firm believer in personal responsibility, I will always try to be available for personal follow-up and any additional instruction necessary to ensure a successful college admission, application and transition process. As always, I welcome your questions and always encourage them.

I very much look forward to working with you during this exciting and challenging process.

Warmest regards,
